considerable damage over this part of the country in the way of blowing over wind mills, corn cribs and small out buildings. Old settlers claim it was the worst the country ever experienced.

The inspector of rural routes is billed to be here on Thursday for the purpose of inspecting the route running out of this city for which application was made some two months ago. It is thought that the route as mapped out will "pass muster" with but few, if any, changes.

It is reported that another brick building is to grace Kimball street in the near future, to be located just west of the Callaway State Bank. However, the report is too good to believe until work actually begins on the building. Although the majority of the citizens woted to have a saloon in this city this year, there seems to be no small amount of trouble in finding a location for the institution. Apparently no one wishes the saloon to be located near their place of business, and there are blue streaks of indignation flying in every direction whenever a possible location is mention-ed. However, the town has been full of saloon men looking for a location, and it is hinted that two "helf holes" will be the result of the late election, providing location can be found for them.
